

Standing in Empathy

A Colonization Simulation Experience

Education and Empathy through Immersive Experience

This workshop is created by Keisha Everson, Genie Lindsay, and Kia Everson. Keisha and Kia come from the Gigał'gām 'Walas Kwagu't tribe of the Kwagu't, and the K'omoks First Nation. Genie is Anishnaabe from Tootinaowaziibeeng. They are educators and social justice advocates who have been called to share the untold or misrepresented histories about Indigenous Peoples across Canada. This simulation is designed to take the historical timeline of Canada and its relationship with Indigenous Peoples and help participants feel the impacts that indigenous Canadians are living with today. As we approach the 150th anniversary of the Indian Act, join us to understand the resilience and history that lives in Indigenous Peoples and Canada.
